AN OLD NEWSPAPER.

The London Gazette is the oldest newspaper printed in English in the world. It is invaluable for historical reference, though the matter, always published "by authority, and by authority only, is presented in a man ner that pleased the "authority" for the time "Authority's" side of the story is told, and the other side was left to the pamphleteers and small historians of the day.

The Congressional Library has a complete set of the London Gazette, in more than two hundred volumes, from its commencement in 1665 to the present time. We have before us a single copy of number 1865 of the paper, dated "from Monday, October 1, to Thursday, October 4, 1683." This number is remarkable as containing the addresses to Charles II, congratulating him upon the discovery of the Rye House Plot. These addresses, from the lieutenants, deputy-lieutenants, and officers of the militia for the county of Northumberland; from the mayor, aldermen, and "burgymasters" of the "antient" borough of Westbury, in the county of Wilts; from the borough of Newham, in the county of Glocester; and from other boroughs, towns, and counties, all speak in loyal terms of denunciation of the "sincere scheme of that most execrable conspiracy," and the Gazette says of the addresses that "His Majesty was pleased to receive them very graciously.

The paper is a very neatly printed doublecolumn folio, size of page, 111 by 7 inches. It contains, besides the addresses, which occupy five columns, two and one-quarter columns of news and three-quarters of a column of advertisements. The news from Vienna is to September 19, and announces the relief of the city after sixty days' siege, and the marching of the imperial and Polish armies into Hungary. News from Presbourg, September 25, tells how the garrison of Raab "had fallen upon the Turks as they passed by that place in great disorder, and had killed five hundred of them." The news from Brussels and Amsterdam is to October 8, yet the latest date of the paper in which this news is printed is October 4-a discrepancy which is unaccountable unless October is a (five times repeated) misprint for September.

The advertisements are curious. Here is one which might come under the head of "personals," for in description decidedly personal it is:-"October 2. one William Bateman, a young Man about 25 years of age, being disfigured with the Small Pox, a flat bottle Nose, somewhat Bow Legged, went away in a light Cloth-colored Sut, lined with black Sattin, and black Buttons, having a Frize sod colored coat over it. Took a way out of Lombard street a considerable sum of Money, with some Guineas, a Seven Stone Diamond Ring, with several Diamond Rings, and about $6 Diamonds, and a par-cel of mark'd Gold Rings, a Gold Watch, and one Silver Watch. If any Person can give notice of the said Bateman (so as he may be apprehended), to Job Boulton, at the Boit & Junn in Lambard street, he shall have Twenty Pounds."

The art of preserving dead buttes by means other than embalming, is supposed to be a quite recent discovery, but Mr. Thomas Warren seems to have known something about it so long ago as 1683; he advertises in the Gazette as follows:-"Mr. Thomas Warren, his Majesties Apothecary in Ordinary, who in a very excellent and curious man-ner Preserves Dead Bodies from Putrefaction, Change of Color or Complexion, without Disboweling, Sear-clothing, or cutting any part thereof, lives at the Hart and Anchor, in St. Lawrence Lane,

The following also appears in the Gazette of "These are to give Notice, that the Jewels of his late Highness Prince Rupert, have been particularly valued and appraised by Mr. Isaac Legouch, Mr. Christopher Rosse, and Mr. Richard Beasevoir, the whole amounting to Twenty Thousand Pounds, and will be sold by way of Lottery, each Lot to be Five Pounds. The biggest Prize will be a great Pearl Necklace, valued at £8000, and none less than £100. A printed Particular of the said Appraisement, with their Division into Lots, will be delivered gratis by Mr. Francis Child, Goldsmith, at Temple-Bar, Lon don, into whose hands, such as are willing to be Adwenturers, are desired to pay their Money on or about the first day of November next. As soon as the whole sum is paid in, a short day will be ap-pointed (which, it is hoped, will be before Christmas), and notified in the Gazetts, for the drawing thereof, which will be done in His Majesties Presence, who is pleased to declare that he himself will sell all the Prizes put in amongst the Blanks, and that the whole shall be managed with all Equity and fairness: nothing being intended but the Sale of the said Jewels at a moderate Value. And it is fur-ther notified for the satisfaction of all such as shall be Adventurers that the said Mr. Child shall and will stand obliged to each of them for their several Adventures, till the said Lottery be drawn. And that each Adventurer shall receive their Money back if the said Lottery be not drawn and finished before the first day of February next."

There were other famous Gazettes about these days, principal among them the Gazette de Hollande, from which Prince Paul recites the notice of his intended marriage to the Grande Ducheese, and the Gazette de France, which was established in April, 1631, and the publication of which has been continued in Paris to the present time.

A VISIT TO THE HOME OF WHITTIER. A correspondent of the Boston Commonwealth writes as follows from the residence of Whittier, the poet:-

"When I came to Amesbury I found two small volumes of Whittier's poems where I stopped, and soon after a young man sold me the diamond edition. This is indeed the place to read his poems, for you can find more than one person to inform you of the localities therein mentioned. They will tell you that 'sweet Kenoza,' 'lake of the pickerel,' is a beautitul sheet of water in Haverhill, and Artichoak is a little stream in the same region, and Attitash (huckleberry), here profanely called Kimball's Pond, is just above 'Lion's Mouth.' That height yonder, on which stands the castle-looking pile (the summer residence of Mr. Thornton, the British Minister), that height on the opposite side of the Merrimac, and just above Hawkswood, and around which sweeps the river, is called Laurel Hill, and just above, on the river, is the place called 'The Laurels. The 'Pine Path' is also on the Merrimac. This pretty stream that comes winding into the village between Powwow and Whittier Hills, thence moving in snakelike contoutions till it enters the Merrimac, is the 'swift Powwow, and 'The Fountain' is further to the east on one of those lovely hills in Salisbury. But the oak, alas! has been cut down by the hand of man (no woman could commit such a sacrilegious act). 'Rivermouth Rocks' and the 'Boar's Head' are at the mouth of Hampton river, which enters the ocean some miles to the north of Newburyport.

"I had been in Amesbury eight weeks before I saw the poet himself, except just a glimpse of his shadow flitting along on the sun-bright snow. I afterward passed three weeks at a house nearly opposite his, from which I could every morning see the sun rising over his roof, forming a sort of halo over and around the house. That shadow and halo henceforth shall be to me a spiritual picture on memory's wall. With their help, and that of the book, it required but little spiritual insight to look down in imagination into the sun-lighted library of the poet, where he sat, and see another, spiritual halo, around his head. people, I imagine, all gifted with immortality, have a halo in embryo, in a nebulous state, even though with some persons ages would seem to be required to pass away before it becomes visible to the naked

eye. But in the case of the poet it is far beyond the nebulous state already. His wife, without the distracting cares of a modern family, without the strife of ordinary worldly business, without the ambitions and jealousies of political life, among those good Quaker people, and daily in communion with dear ones departed to higher spheres, flows on like a beautiful river that broadens and deepens, becoming more serene and majestic, less disturbed by the eddies on the shore and the rapids at the bottom as it approaches the great ocean of eternity.
